

Stutman Law Quarterly Newsletter

Q3 2020

Featured Content

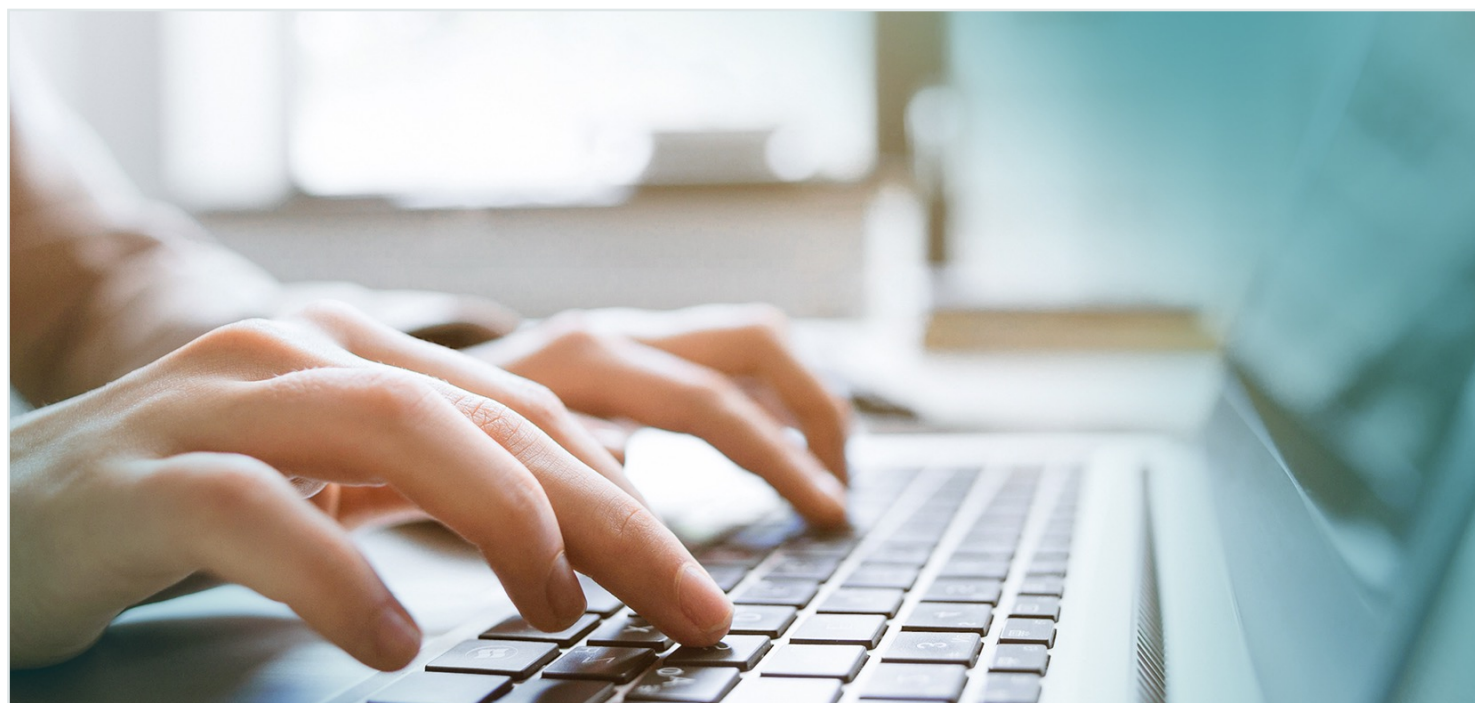

The solar industry is growing fast, with constantly changing technologies and innovations. Stutman Law has invaluable experience investigating solar system failures and translating those failures into meaningful subrogation recoveries. Stutman Law attorneys Kevin Smith and Brian Wong have teamed up to share some of their knowledge on how to properly investigate solar system claims in their new e-book, “The Sun Rises on a New Opportunity.”

Upcoming Events

Don't miss any of the upcoming Stutman Law speaking events! Our attorneys will be presenting virtually as part of the NASP Webinar Series in August and October. Also, several Stutman Law attorneys have been selected to speak at the NASP 2020 Annual Conference in November.

Visit Our Events Page

Latest News

This year has brought a number of changes and challenges, however the attorneys and staff at Stutman Law have stayed busy doing what we have always done: working hard to obtain favorable subrogation results for our clients. Here are the latest articles outlining some of our recent wins.

- Boat owner could not escape liability under U.S. Maritime Law's Limitation of Liability Act. READ ►
- And the beat goes on: Stutman Law continues it's success in arbitration in 2020. READ ►
- Bringing Concurrent Negligence and Breach of Contract Claims and Maximizing Recoveries by Stutman Law's Jonathan Acklen, featured in the latest issue of the Subrogator Magazine. READ ►

Are you following Stutman Law?

For frequent news updates and information, make sure to follow us on LinkedIn.

Follow Stutman Law

